Over the years, the National Book Fund has granted $3M in New Readers Press® books and materials to local literacy programs.

Since the National Book Fund® started in 1995, hundreds of supporters have given National Book Fund grants to 1,856 programs in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. These grants have provided at least 236,000 high-quality education materials for those programs.

AS A RESULT ...

- 160,885 learners have received literacy education.
- 43,823 tutors, volunteers, and instructors have received instructional support.

This has made it possible for at least 40,000 PEOPLE to experience significant life changes, such as getting a driver’s license or a better job.

Over the years, the National Book Fund has granted $3M in New Readers Press® books and materials to local literacy programs.